TOPIC: “Streets for People”

SUMMARY: Shifting from largely carriers of automobile traffic to spaces for all users, streets and corridor within the right-of-way have been evolving in recent years to require more holistic designs so that they can function to benefit a variety of interests. By assessing existing infrastructure and forming a plan for improvement, municipalities can be proactive in creating these types of spaces within their existing infrastructure and pedestrian networks. In this presentation, we will explore how we can design our streets and public spaces to support people by examining how we prioritize our street space and how we can meet ADA standards and provide access to all.
